AUGUST 2002

Naval Postgraduate School

From the Quality of Life Director...

The long awaited Grand Opening of the Golf Course Clubhouse Complex is history! And while the newly renovated Trident Bar is now open, the Grand Opening event will be Thursday 8 August at 1300. If you haven't been by to check out our facilities, be sure to do so soon! The Golf Course now features a brand new clubhouse, restaurant, pro shop, and cart barn complete with 50 new electric carts. On Saturday 13 July, several hundred golf enthusiasts attended the first annual Superintendent's Cup, where they participated in the ribbon-cutting ceremony and consumed great food and beverages. Similarly, you've got to see how the Bar has been historically restored with red oak paneling, copper trim, and much more. Your MWR facilities are now "second to none!"

Golfers need little excuse to explore a golf course, but even if you don't golf check out our new clubhouse restaurant, The Monterey Pines 19th Hole Grill. Here you can dine under our covered veranda or on our beautiful patio. Chef Hugh Butler has developed a menu that you will definitely enjoy. You can even have our very own PGA Pro, Mr. Clay Murray, give you lessons before or after lunch. And coming soon - social hours at the golf course, catered parties, and more!

Our Navy Motion Picture service movie theater is really booming. Many of you have discovered what a great deal we offer Monday through Thursday nights in our ballroom. We feature recently released blockbuster movies on our 9' x 12' screen while you lounge in comfortable chairs and eat free popcorn. By request, movies now start at 1900 M-W and 1830 on Thursdays (G-rated movies for the kids). Take advantage of our high quality and very reasonably priced dinners and get out of the house for a great time!

NETWORKING

AN IMPORTANT PART OF JOB HUNTING

There are many different avenues to take while exploring career path. Although reading the help wanted ads and sending out resumes are important approaches to finding a job, it is often not enough.

An important part of the job hunt is networking. This simply means telling everyone you come in contact with that you are looking for a job and what type of occupation you are looking for. This system has a spider web effect - each person you will talk to will branch off and come in contact with several more people. In other words, you enlist the help of everyone you know to keep their eyes and ears open on your behalf.

It is surprising how effective networking can be in finding a job. But you might be asking yourself, "How do I make all of these contacts?"

Circulation is the answer. Meet and talk with people wherever you can - school, church, the tennis court, fitness center, and social organizations. By extending your circle of friends and acquaintances, you will multiply your job-search antennae several times. The more feelers you have working on your behalf, the faster you are going to find a job.

Building contacts within your field of interest is very important. Do some volunteer work that would utilize your skills. By doing this, you not only tell important contacts what you can do, you show them. Once you have demonstrated your talents, jobs can open up very fast. Sometimes, an organization can even create a job around your abilities.

Professional organizations can also provide a garden of networks. These clubs are made up of people in your field who can either help you get an interview or hire you themselves. Bring along some resumes and talk to as many members as you can. Once you have cultivated enough contacts, you will begin to see results. Your contacts will tell you of someone who may be looking for somebody like yourself. Ask your contact: "May I tell this person that you recommended I call?" Or, "Would you be willing to call ahead so they will know who I am when I contact them?"

Networking can generate a lot of solid job leads. And unlike sending in resumes cold, your contacts have the invaluable influence that comes with attaching their recommendation to your name.

One network contact that is readily available is the Spouse Employment Assistance Program at the Fleet and Family Support Center. Call Oliver A. White (831) 656-3060, at the FFSC, La mesa Village for an appointment to discuss your employment needs. Be sure to visit our Career Resource Room when you come.
